Being Bad

James Newton Howard

I won't begin to understand How I just found the perfect man Where have you been hiding out? You're deadly You turn me on, you spun me out You know just what I am all about I've got my eyes all over you You're tricky Now I see How life could be A scent so sweet You've got me falling Being bad never felt so good Being bad never felt so good Being bad never felt so good, my dear I never lie or never cheat Unless I think it will make you see Precisely what it is I need from you, babe A perfect match, a naughty game Please, I never want to be the same A perfect sin You've got me in your web's maze Now I see how life could be You are so sweet You've got me falling Being bad never felt so good Being bad never felt so good Being bad never felt so good, my dear Being bad never felt so good Being bad never felt so good Being bad never felt so good, my dear Oh! Being bad I love being bad Being bad never felt so good Never felt so good
