

Don't Say No

Jamestown Story

If only you were a ship, I'd sail the seven seas Claiming all the land that remains of you and me We'd drift down the coast in search of a new life but all we'd find is Gold just to misdirect our minds

Don't say no, don't burn yourself alive, wont you take one last breath,
And hold on tight
And when the clouds come rolling in to pour their summer tears upon your Burning skin, ill be waiting here

If only I was a star sewn into the sky, hanging from the though ts that Always keep you awake at night
And when you would look up the fog would cover me, hiding all t hat we Share and all that we can be

Ill be waiting here
Ill be standing here
Are you listening?
I hope you're listening
