

Gone

Jamestown Story

I was surprised to see her waiting on my front porch her eyes told mine that things were not OK I just stood there while she told me that she loved him wishing I had not come home that day And as she slowly walked away I had a vision of life without her I could hardly breathe This is the end, no second chance, now he's got what I had and I don't know if I could ever love again

As my world comes crashing down tonight I'll hold on to all her memories and forget all the lies I'll never know if we could have made it all along I still can't believe she's gone

If someone out there could please give me one good reason why I sure feel like hell and she's OK what goes around comes back around, she'll feel how I do now and when she does I hope it hurts her more than me
