

It Will Be Alright (Hallelujah)

Jamestown Story

I've been dreaming of oceans and footprints embedded in sand
That follow our foot steps, as we prepare to disband
Now time keeps us apart but pulls us through
As the minutes they turn to hours to days to you
When I come your way it will be alright and
When the world digs its grave it will be alright
I need all your strength to believe that someday you'll be here with me
I've been waiting to see you, our time might be short but its t ime
Just one day in your arms is all I need to survive
And when the days grow short we'll be ok
As we will let our loved hearts boldly lead the way
When I come your way it will be alright and
When the world digs its grave it will be alright
You and me will be all that we need to spend eternity
