I want somebody to share my life I'll never leave you alone I want to take somebody into my life I'm searching for you I know that you're there I'm done with before I don't see the past Let's make the clock disappear There's only one thing to say You're missing somebody You're missing me There's nothing to weigh you down I don't have a past Let's make the clock disappear There's only one thing to see You're missing somebody You're missing me There's nothing to weigh you down I don't have a past Let's make the jump into eternity You'll find you're future And we'll forget about that