

Who Am I To You

Janet Devlin

Lullaby of loneliness
into the wilderness
you tell me not run tomorrow never knows the future got a mix tape of mistakes of my life on reply to come undone to face what I've become ho am I to you today?

I change like seasons, but that's okay
and who I was slips away.

The first time I held a map
I was sure that I'd leave me behind so long and goodnight

Who am I to you today?
I change like seasons, but that's okay
and who I was slips away.

Whisperers tell a tale, but the wind knows the real me

Who am I to you to you today?
I change like seasons, but that's okay
and who I was slips away.
