

Another Night

Jason Donovan

I can find so much to be done I can keep my emotions at bay.
I can always mix with the crowd but some how I cant get through the day.

But your smile begins to haunt me as the evening comes around

Another night and still your gone
another dream that your coming home
another day I could just survive but I can't take another night
.

I can try to escape from the world I can stay around friends ev ery day.

With all these people around I seem to have plenty to say.

But my laughter doesnt fool them they can see it in my face.

Another night and still your gone
another dream that your coming home
another day I could just survive but I can't take another night
.

Another night to carry on Another dream another song
Another day I could be alright but I can't take another night.

But your voice begins to echo as the darkness starts to fall.

Another night and still your gone
another dream that your coming home
another day I could just survive but I can't take another night
.

Another night and still your gone
another dream that your coming home
another day I could just survive but I can't take another night
.