

Come Back

Jason Lancaster

All this walking around kills the time but it still helps me think
About everything, used to be you and me
As I walk and I pace it's familiar faces and drinks
They don't drown anything, they don't dull out the sting

Cause maybe I'd be better off alone and letting go

So baby come back cause I'm falling apart
I'm reaching for words that I meant from the start
With everything said and every wound open
Everything bled and every heart hoping that you'd come back
And we all sing along to words that we knew never fit with the song
Over chords that come unclothed
So we'll sing with our eyes closed
Until you maybe come back

I've had plenty of hours alone with just me and my room
But what keeps peeking through is the pictures of you
And if anyone asks you can tell them I'm doing okay
It's just day after day, I'm still seeing your face

Cause maybe I'm just better off alone

So baby come back cause I'm falling apart
I'm reaching for words that I meant from the start
With everything said and every wound open
Everything bled and every heart hoping that you'd come back
And we all sing along to words that we knew never fit with the song
Over chords that come unclothed
So we'll sing with our eyes closed
Until you maybe come back

So here I am alone searching for a cover blown
How am I to hide when I've got so much to atone for?
Tell me that you're never gonna throw it away
And the time we have together wasn't something you're afraid of Cause we're so much bigger than the moment
Please take my heart as your condolence

So baby come back cause I'm falling apart
I'm reaching for words that I meant from the start
With everything said and every wound open
Everything bled and every heart hoping that you'd come back
And we all sing along to words that we knew never fit with the song
Over chords that come unclothed
So we'll sing with our eyes closed
Until you maybe come back
