

No Doubling Back

Jason Mraz

I would like to hold your hand
As we shifted through this twisted abandon
I would like to think
That you'd know your way

We have dodged the ropes of rain
Where the cats and the dogs where they love to play on
A handsome fella with umbrella
Who once saved you your day

And I will ask you to open my door from the side
From the inside after you drive
Because I wanna stay awake for a little bit longer
That's why

Warm the engine compartment up
While I stand here and think it up
But it's a little too early to bury the worries
Still this wish is my command

And aha ha, well I wonder, wonder which one of us
Is gonna state the obvious
And aha ha, well I wonder if you already know
That I gotta let you go

I know this ain't the way I planned it
I guess I ain't the great romantic
And I'm not doublin' back now
No doublin' back, doublin' back now

Well, before I catch you complainin'
That it hardly rains at all
Let me stop to lock my top
For fear of it fallin' harder

... eyes ... easily
Arms are scars of where
The war was waged on
Words that we heard as a joke
How did it drown our love? Oh love

When it rains, it's sure to pour
But when I look in your eyes
I fear I won't see surprise
That I'm not doublin' back

And aha ha, well, I wonder, wonder which one of us
Is gonna state the obvious
And aha ha, well, I wonder if you already know
That I gotta let you go

I know this ain't the way I planned it
I guess I ain't the great romantic
And I'm not doublin' back now
No doublin' back, doublin' back now

Here it comes

The drop of rain if hit my tongue
And I swear I love you all

You see there ain't no way, no way I planned it
I guess I ain't the great romantic
And I'm not doublin' back now
No doublin' back, doublin' back now

No turnin' around
No doublin' back, doublin' back now
No doublin' back, doublin' back now
