

Return To Me

Jason Upton

What have I done wrong
Was it something that I said
Was it something that you wanted
Was it something I withheld

What could be the reason that
You'd turn and walk away
Where could you be going
Are you coming back someday

My heart is slowly breaking
But one question still remains
How long will I be waiting
To see you here again

I love you and I still believe
That you will love me too
I love you if you return to me
I will return to you

To this place where I last saw you
I've returned a thousand times
A thousand tears have fallen
A thousand dreams have died

But I believe the day is dawning
I'll see you coming down the road
I've had a ring made for your finger and the servants made a robe
And the calf has been made ready
Our favorite feast is overdue
Cause one chair at the table
Is empty without you
