Another Nite Another Love

Jay-Jay Johanson

Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions

Too shy to make the first step Not confident enough Afraid to break the friendship We managed to build up

Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions

The first time will keep you calm The second time will only make you wonder

Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions

I practice how to tell you But speechless then and there The time we say goodbye I regret i didn't dare

Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions

The third time you'll be confused The last time will make your world go under

Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions

The first time will keep you calm The second time will only make you wonder The third time you'll be confused The last time will make your world go under

Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions Another nite, another love Do you remember your emotions