Jean Shepard

I want you more than any woman can you mean more to me than any other man

Now she's with you things you do with her I've done them for so long

I love you more today than she can from now on

I kissed your tears away when you were sad

Held you close felt your warm love when you were glad

So no matter how much love she has for you or how long

I love you more today than she can from now on

We've already done the things she plans to do

So don't be surprised if late at night I'm in your dreams with you

And if someday her love for you should go wrong

I love you more today than she can from now on

I love you more today than she can from now on