

Teach Me How To Say Goodbye

Jeanette

I rest my hand across your lips
Feel your breathe apart my finger-tips
No longer can I delay what is right
But this love it wont give up without a fight

I write an old then tear it up
There are no words that could say enough
I know Im gonna hurt you, when I walk out that door
But I swear its gonna hurt me even more

You taught me how to laugh
You taught me how to cry
When I gave up you even taught me how to try
Theres one more thing to learn
Before I spread my wings and fly
You gonna have to teach me how to say goodbye
Goodbye

Wish I could see your dreams tonight
Wish I could make them turn out right
Stem time to turn back for just one last kiss
But my heart tells me its better just like this

So this is how the story ends
When love is gone you cant pretend
No matter who else I give my heart to Theres a part of it that still belongs to you

You taught me how to laugh
You taught me how to cry
When I gave up you even taught me how to try
Theres one more thing to learn, before I spread my wings and fly
You gonna have to teach me how to say goodbye
Goodbye

You made me strong, when I was weak
You gave my heart a voice to speak
You must have now stay what come
When the lessons are all done
All except for one

You taught me how to laugh
You taught me how to cry
When I gave up you even taught me how to try
Theres one more thing to learn, before I spread my wings and fly
You gonna have to teach me how to say goodbye

You gonna have to teach me how to say goodbye