True Love

Jefferson Airplane

Take the night when you've got a feeling When you're trying to forget the day you've been through Is it right to keep your affection While a desperate attempt is make to get through

Could it be a miracle Could it be what the dream is really made of Who can say when and where it will But our hearts will decide when you find true love

There is love that lurks in the shadows There is love that pulls up beside you and opens the door There's the one that sneaks up behind you And it stays until the moment that you're needing more

Could it be a miracle Could it be what the dream is really made of Who can say when and where it will But our hearts will decide when you find true love