

Where Can You Run

Jennifer Rush

Just when you think you know where you stand
Just when you feel secure
Someone walks in and changes all your plans

Right when you had your feet on the ground
Finally self-assured
Somehow it all just slipped right through your hands

Where can you run
When the walls of your dreams come tumbling down
Where can you run
When the world you believed in has broken its vow
When you don't know where to turn
I'll be there for you the way you were for me

Just when you had the game figured out
Mastered all the moves
Someone walks in and changes all the rules
Where are the people you thought were your friends
After they heard the news
Hard to believe they would turn their backs on you

Where can you run
When the walls of your dreams come tumbling down
Where can you run
When the world you believed in has broken its vow
When you don't know where to turn
I'll be there for you the way you were for me

When you don't know where to turn you can believe
I'll be there when hope has disappeared
In your darkest hour of need
I'll be there when hope has disappeared
In your darkest hour of need
I'll be there for you
The way you were for me
