

I'm Gonna Write A Song

Jerry Reed

Alright

Folks sit around with their face in a frown

And they gripe about the way things are

They're happy to receive but they hardly ever want to give

Well neighbor I'm so tired of complainin' so in the time remain in'

I'm gonna do my best to make the world a better place to live

Yes I'm gonna write a song that the whole wide world can sing

It's gonna be about sunshine and praise every livin' thing

It's gonna be about love the one thing the world needs a lot more of

Well I'm gonna write a song that the whole wide world can sing

Pick it son

Well our forefathers had only faith in God

And the will to make our nation strong

So the old time religion could help 'em find a better way

Well we need a liittle more soul savin' and a whole lot more flag wavin'

And there ain't no better time for us to start than today

Sing it children

Well now I'm gonna write a song that the whole wide world can sing...

I'm gonna write a song that the whole wide world can sing...
