Cleveland

Went walking underneath the shadows Where dark and sweet secrets lay When night tonight falls gently down Hearts helplessly fall to the ground Underneath a velvet sky Only words can lie

I wanna tell you everything I wanna make your toes curl You be my only boy And I'll be your only girl There's not much I can say You're in Cleveland today You're in Cleveland today

Stewardesses like Cosmo magazine Vogue makes me nervous I feel so plain I could the world fearlessly If you would face it here with me Just our four hands and four eyes Traffic cops would compromise

I wanna tell you everything I wanna make your toes curl You be my only boy And I'll be your only girl There's not much I can say You're in Cleveland today You're in Cleveland today

Daffodils and roulette wheels and rusty automobiles Somewhere our things share the same window sill Somewhere our hearts exist independent of time Somewhere we are whole One body One body and one mind

From the air things look so ridiculous Our fears so small, our fights so vain I wanna pilot a plane with you So all our problems look small, too It's only an inch from me to you Depending on what map you use

I wanna tell you everything I wanna make your toes curl You be my only boy And I'll be your only girl There's not much I can say Cuz you're in Cleveland today Oh, you're in Cleveland today You're in Cleveland today
