

A Thousand Years

Jillian Edwards

Hold on to me just a little bit more
We're standing at an open door
Standing at the edge of light
One step further and you'll see I'll catch
You and you'll fall into me
I'm dying for the chance to save you

I can love you with the love of a thousand years
Swing open the door to kick out the fears
We can run, we can run, we can run and be
Never out of reach
My heart is not a ticking bomb that is tied up with faulty promise
No time limit, no border on this
Love that we've found, this land we're living in now
We're living in now

What if we skip to the end and see
Both of our souls were men free
Standing up in the fight
Strong and steady
Our heartbeat like a drum
We'll bury yesterday in some
Pile of endless tomorrow

I need more than a lifetime
To give you all that I want to

I can love you with the love of a thousand years
Swing open the door to kick out the fears
We can run, we can run, we can run and be
Never out of reach
My heart is not a ticking bomb that is tied up with faulty promise
No time limit, no border on this
Love that we've found, this land we're living in now
We're living in now

You are a sweet taste
You are a dream I will remember later
When heaven wakes my soul
You are the foreshadow of that life
That life

I can love you with the love of a thousand years
Swing open the door to kick out the fears
We can run, we can run, we can run and be
Never out of reach
