

To Hear You Say You Love Me

Jim Brickman

I have loved or so I thought before
But this is so much more
I couldn't last a day without you
In my life, you're the reason that I breathe; you're everything
I need
The miles in between won't change that

I will reach out to the ocean with my arms wide open
And send to you my heart my soul my true devotion
No, there's nothing I won't give
Do you know that I live for the chance to hear you say, you love me

In my dreams, you're right here by my side
Each time I close my eyes
I still can see that sweet September
In the rain laughing in the rain
I'll never be the same
Until the moment we're together

I will reach out to the ocean with my arms wide open
And send to you my heart my soul my true devotion
No, there's nothing I won't give
Do you know that I live for the chance to hear you say, you love me
Until the moment we're together

I will reach out to the ocean with my arms wide open
And send to you my heart my soul my true devotion
No, there's nothing I won't give
Do you know that I live for the chance to hear you say, you love me
For the chance to hear you say, you love me
