

To Survive

Joan as Police Woman

Sleep now, little one
I'll sing to you, little one
There's no one here
Who means you any harm, little one

I know what it means to be sad
It never goes
So learn to hold it close
As a friend

'Cause we never know
How much we can take
Before we break
The spell in our haunted house

I've never felt alone
Like I do now, this moment
I don't belong here at all
Must find the spark to go on

Little one 'cause I owe it to us
To tend the fire and fend off fear
The fear in me so near to me
It never goes so learn to let it in

Like the rain 'cause we never know
How much we can take
Before the storm breaks
The storm of our wild design

I've never felt this way
Or maybe I do everyday
What is this gift to be alive
Must find the spark, the spark to survive
