

Whirlwind

Joan Jett

When I woke up today I was dizzy in my brain
It's not that I like to feel this way
The wagon's shaking and I feel it start to tilt
And I just go tumbling right back in the whirlwind
And I find myself again

I cannot seem to hold on to a fucking thought
This whirlwind's got me and I'm racing out the door
It's alright for a while but when I try to focus
All my convictions come crashing down around me again
Sneaking up behind me when I ain't lookin'

Stare out my window, I smell a sour mist come in
It hovers around this house like some sort of doom and cloud

I cannot seem to put my thoughts within a line
The whirlwind breaks it up like dust within a storm
When it rains it pours until we haven't got no more
And I just go tumbling right back into the whirlwind again

It's been a week now, and I haven't seen daylight
And all my friends are tired of worrying about me
At my feet the wagon's in a million pieces
Gotta find the strength to build it back up again

I cannot seem to put my thoughts within a line
This whirlwind breaks it up like dust within a storm
When it rains it pours until we haven't got no more
And I just go tumbling right back in the whirlwind again

When I woke up today I was dizzy in my head
It's not that I like to feel this way
The wagon's shaking and I feel it start to tilt
And all of my convictions come crashing down around me again
And I find myself at the end
