

I Find The Light In You

Joe Brooks

I don't think there's a word I've ever heard
That captures the innocence of you
And I wouldn't want one too
And no, I wouldn't want one too
It'd be like smothering a star
Or covering a work of art
Driving so fast that the view falls apart
Like I do
Without you.

But I'm on my way home
And I'm worn to the bone
And when my heart hits an all time low.
There's something shining through
I find the light in you
I find the light in you.

I don't think there's a sun that's ever shone
Brighter than the radiance of you
And I wouldn't want one too
No, I wouldn't want one too
It would be a fire forever tamed
A burn without the pain
A heat that never warms the things
Like you do.
Like you do.

But I'm on my way home
And I'm worn to the bone
And when my heart hits an all time low.
There's something shining through
I find the light in you

Take my hand and we can beat
This glimmer of a dream
Out from the corner
Oooooo
Place your fingers into mine
And we can find a world
If we believe it we can breathe it
Breathe it into life. yeah

And I'm on my way home
I'm worn to the bone
And my heart hits and all time low
There's something shining through

But I'm on my way home
And I'm worn to the bone
And when my hearts hits an all time low
There's something shining through
I find the light in you. (8x)
