Lullaby

Joe Jackson

Shall I stay or go Through the door Will the pen to flow Watch the stars Sleep's a chore

The moon is growing cold It hangs like a sliver of tin How do our dreams unfold And why are my bones feeling thin

I watch my pen as though My fingers could shatter like icicles And before my eyes Lie glittering and useless on a field of snow