No Truck, No Boat, No Girl

Joe Nichols

Sun-burned and wonderin', how I wound up here Edge of a dock, one flip flop, half of a six-pack of beer Seems like yesterday I was sittin' on top of the world And I watched it all just drive away No truck, no boat, no girl.

Layin' out there on that water, is where we ought to be Instead I'm stuck with no ride home and no you here with me Seems like yesterday I was sittin' on top of the world All it takes is one mistake, No truck, no boat, no girl.

If I could I'd drive a line and catch a bite to eat Put my zip-code in my tackle box [?] [x2]

The water's turnin' smooth as glass, the sun is goin' down A red sea regal's blowin' by makin' one last lap around Seems like yesterday I was sittin' on top of the world I'm just bobbin' in the wake No truck, no boat, no girl.

Seems like yesterday I was sittin' on top of the world Man ain't meant to live this way
No truck, no boat, no girl.
Some things just can't be replaced
No truck, no boat, no girl.
