

Another Used to Be

Joe

I brought you here so that i can express the things i've been thinking about give me your ear.
cuz i don't normally do this so bare with me through this. there are so many things that i want to say. but let me start by saying this saying i thank you . darling just because..

i used to love someone that i didn't like we used to want to break up every other night. i used to think relationships were a lot of stress. i used to think that pain was a part of happiness. now all that's changed since you've come my way, but i don't want us to become another used to be.

I hope what i'm saying don't discourage you in any kind of way cuz i do believe that you have the potential to be everything i need. i hope that you can really understand that i would hate to be with someone new, and tell them what i'm telling you.

i used to love someone that i didn't like. we used to want to break up every other night. i used to think relationships were a lot of stress. i used to think that pain was a part of happiness. now all that's changed since you've come my way, but i don't want us to become another used to be.

cuz it would only be another waste of time, another moment to be raised i would be about my mind. another memory a part of history. I can't forget cuz it keeps haunting me. Now that your here is evidently clear, but i don't ever have to have this worry again again. ooohhhooooooooo.

i used to love someone that i didn't like. we used to want to break up every other night. i used to think relationships were a lot of stress. i used to think pain was a part of happiness. now all that's changed since you've come my way, but i don't want us to become another used to be.