

Some Friends

John Cale

The tide has turned around and the chill settles in Summer is almost gone
I run along the shore
I can't avoid it anymore
In the window where the sun shines through on the bedroom linen that keep you cool you lie there Thinking in wide-eyed surprise
Hardly believing we realise that some friends pass on Some friends belong to time