

I Know You're There

John Elefante

A lonely tree upon a mountaintop
A city street where people never stop
There You are
A smile upon a little child's face
A lonely soul in a forgotten place
There You are

But way beyond a winter's dream
There's a song without a theme
I understand as we dance
Deep into the starry night
The song plays on till morning light
It never ends

Every time I feel the wind blow
Every time I see a rainbow
I know You're there
Every time I see a tear fall
Every time You hear my heart call
I know You're there

Cause You are the Author of all that we are
Father of Fathers
We're never too far
From You Lord, from You

Old man looking out the window
Wondering where did all the time go
There You are
A mother praying for her lost son
Wondering why on earth did he run
There You are
Holding back tears like a river of years that have all gone by

Cause You are the Author of all that we are
Father make sure that we're never too far
From You Lord, from You
