

Last Song

John Entwistle

(J. Entwistle)

I go where the music takes me
A turn the music takes me home
She knows she can never shake me
The longest love I've ever known
Now I can't stop, stop living this life
One note at a time, the words you speak begin to rhyme
Just one more song one more time
This is the last song, this is the last song
I go where the music takes me
A turn the music takes me home
She took this kid from the last gig
And put a man a super door
Now I can't stop, I never want to stop
Stop playing
I'm alive I'm the survivor
Still standing where giants have stood
They're bleeding now
If only they could
You think not enough to wake the dead
Maybe they would
Home is where the music takes me
This is where the music takes me home
Home is where the music takes me
She 's a hard mistress
She never lets you go
Now you can't stop
Stop living your life
One note at a time
This is the end of the line
We are out of song we are out of time
It's time to say good night
We wish you all good night
This is the last song
This is where the music takes me home
This is the last song
We wish you all good night
Good night.
