

The Days Have Turned

John Frusciante

The days have turned away from me
The lights no longer shine on my head
And people turn away from me
No more do they look to me with respect

Well, I know now
For the first time
That was fun
Now from life I've resigned
When I feel I've got problems
How wrong I am
I'm awaiting life as another man
Don't crowd me

There's riddles in the shadows
They're thrown the way that I'd expect
And people never seem to know
What they least suspect is coming next

Well it seems like my time's elapsed
And I've stabbed life in the back
I'm searching for what it means
To never be anything, anything

And I know now
For the first time
That was fun
Now from life I've resigned
When I feel I've got problems
How wrong I am
I'm awaiting life as another man
