Now More Than Ever

John Mellencamp

If you believe Won't you please raise your hands Let's hear your voices Let us know where you stand Don't shout from the shadows 'Cause it won't mean a damn Now more than ever

Now more than ever The world needs love Not just a slogan But the world needs love Now more than ever I can't stand alone Now more than ever

If I was to buy you A diamond ring Make you my princess Would it mean anything Would you take me for granted And just curse my name Now more than ever

Now more than ever The world needs love Not just a slogan But the world needs love Now more than ever I can't stand alone Now more than ever

Who am I to say What needs to be done I am just nobody Another lost one Caught between what's left And what needs to be done Now more than ever The loss of love The loss of our dreams It's not too late

Now more than ever The world needs love Not just a slogan But the world needs love Now more than ever I can't stand alone Now more than ever

Now more than ever The world needs love Not just a slogan But the world needs love Now more than ever I can't stand alone Now more than ever
