John Waite

For so long, you've gone on Trying to see an end to it all And I know, your grip is getting loose You think if you leave The pain will go away But you don't know You need it to get through 'Cause I can tell by the things you say That your feelings will never change You'll keep coming back to what you know is true It's okay to want to be free It's okay to spread your wings If you know how to fly So for now, you go on Crawling along for a while But you're dragging me down You're holding me back You're making it end 'Cause I can tell by the things you say That your feelings will never change You'll keep coming back to what you know is true Chorus You can fly Chorus It's okay to close your eyes It's okay to fade away If you don't want to stay 'Cause you can fly You can fly
