

Nothing Happens For Nothing

John Wetton

Venus and Mars collide tonight
But I was looking the other way
Still we cannot decide what's right
Each and every day

Pay attention to every detail
Take care of your health
Got a fact that I've been dying to tell you
Been keeping it to myself

Nothing happens for nothing, baby
Everything must have a reason
Nothing happens for nothing, maybe
That's worth believing

You really started something
But it just don't seem to register with me
I see a new day coming
It could set us free

For every action, there's a chain reaction
That we just can't help
Take these words that a good friend once told me
Don't keep them to yourself

Nothing happens for nothing, baby
Everything must have a reason
Nothing happens for nothing, maybe
That's worth believing
