Frankie's Man, Johnny

Johnny Cash

Well, now Frankie And Johnny were sweethearts They were true as a blue, blue sky He was a long-legged guitar picker With a wicked wandering eye

But he was her man Nearly all of the time

Well, Johnny He packed up to leave her But he promised he'd be back He said he had a little picking to do A little farther down the track

He said, I'm your man I wouldn't do you wrong

Well, Frankie curled up on a sofa Thinking about her man Far away the couples were dancing To the music of his band

He was Frankie's man He wasn't doing her wrong

Then in the front door Walked a redhead Johnny saw her right away She came down by the bandstand To watch him while he played

He was Frankie's man But she was far away

He sang every song to the redhead She smiled back at him Then he came and sat at her table Where the lights were low and dim

What Frankie didn't know Wouldn't hurt her none

Then the redhead Jumped up and slapped him She slapped him a time or two She said, I'm Frankie's sister And I was checking up on you

If you're her man You better treat her right

Well, the moral of this story Is be good but carry a stick Sometimes it looks like a guitar picker Just can't tell what to pick He was Frankie's man and He still ain't done her wrong
