

Siren's Song

Jon Foreman

My love is at the edge
Edge of the ocean
She's wrapped in greens and blue
My love is at the edge
The edge of the ocean
She sings to me a tune

Come to the sea
Come and find me
And wash yourself in blue
Come to the sea
Come and make me
I'm waiting here for you

My love is at the sea
She asks for devotion
To finally come true
At night I hear her breath
It sounds like explosions
Beneath these winter moons

Come to the sea
Come and taste me
My blood, my bitter tide
Come to the sea
Come and have me
My arms are open wide
Come to the sea
Come and cross me
We'll reach the other side
Come to the sea
Come and take me
And have me for your bride
Come to the sea
Come to the sea
Come to the sea
Come and listen to the sailor's lullaby

My love is at the edge
Come to the sea
My love is at the edge
Come to the sea
My love is at the edge
Come to the sea
My love is at the edge
Come to the sea
