

Another Layer

Jon McLaughlin

I heard it on the radio
Let it be, so I let go
See if it made a difference

I tried to walk a different pace
Show the world, the other face
I hide away because of day

Oh, oh oh, oh, oh oh, I am not the same
Oh, oh oh, oh, oh oh, if I change

Nothing's ever what it seems
You think you've got it figured out
Then find yourself another layer

A laugh can bring you to your knees
Or lift you till you're flying
Do you wanna live it now or later?

Memory refused to find
Is wasted on the color blind
It fades away, lost in the gray

And all of us who sit alone
Pretending that there's no one home
Behind the door, what're we hiding for

Oh, oh oh, oh, oh oh, we are all the same
Oh, oh oh, oh, oh oh, if we, if we change, no

Nothing's ever what it seems
You think you've got it figured out
Then find yourself another layer

A laugh can bring you to your knees
Or lift you till you're flying
Do you wanna live it now or later?

You may not get a second chance
Is not all out of my hands
Now is not gonna pass me by

Nothing's ever what it seems
You think you've got it figured out
Then find yourself another layer

A laugh can bring you to your knees
Or lift you till you're flying
Do you wanna live it now or later?

'Cause nothing is ever what it seems
You think you've got it figured out
Then find yourself another layer

A laugh can bring you to your, bring you to your knees
Or lift you till you're flying
Do you wanna live it now or later?