Summer Is Over

Jon McLaughlin

Autumn never seemed this cold before here I am sleeping on the floor we changed just like the leaves outside my house and my phone lay silent by the couch

I remember June back when I met you and your eyes were green and we were, too but summer is over we were tangled in the morning sun felt you getting colder and we knew that we would come undone it's back to my town, back to your life gray skies are blowing a kiss goodbye to the lovers summer is over

I can still see your silhouette in the white hot sand still feel my ring on your hand the clock was always ticking down behind that glass singing "love, be good while you last" but we both knew what we were getting into the things we said sounded true the distant innocence we are leaving far behind your last words will be burning in my mind in the winter time
