

Too Much Happiness

Jonatha Brooke

I'm lost without you here - desperate when you're far
Nothing even matters when I'm not where you are

It's too much happiness, my love, true
Too much happiness, too much happiness
And too little time with you

I swear my heart explodes each time that you're near
I'm still weak in the knees when you whisper that you're here

It's too much happiness, my love, true
Too much happiness, too much happiness
And too little time...

You say don't worry, you say don't fret
But I say I can't get enough of you yet
You say tomorrow will come what may
But what if tomorrow doesn't mean always?

Life's too short for this much love
So I swear it on the stars
I'll be here forever, wherever you are

It's too much happiness, it's breaking my heart
Too much happiness, right from the start
Too much happiness, too much happiness
Too much happiness, and too little time
Too little time... with you.
