

Drinking With You

Jonathan Coulton

We work late and I pretend that I don't notice when you're next to me
But I do
I might be mistaken, but I sometimes get the feeling that you n otice too
And I know this place that's near here Quiet, dark and small When we're finished here I think that I may want a beer, how ab out you?
It'd be nice to go out drinking with you

You would think that we've danced around each other long enough to know Where to stand And my heart stops in a panic when I think how it would feel to finally hold your hand
So we wait for this to happen
Or make it happen now Either way I think that we should start off with a drink, maybe two
It'd be nice to go out drinking with you

No big deal, we can play it nice and cool and keep the pressure off Invite our friends
And we'll have a few too many, we'll discreetly share a cab hom e when the evening ends
When we reach that awkward moment Standing at your door
We won't even know cause we'll just smile and let it go and sai l on through It'd be nice to go out drinking with you
