

The Truth

Jonny Lang

You're a disease
I love the way you smile
Every breath that I breathe Like I breath you into me
I can't escape
You are the drug I need Hopelessly chained and I cannot be released I'm a prisoner here baby I don't want to leave None of this is really real,
I know it's all make believe

But I don't want to know the truth, I'd rather just believe the lie Tell me this is who we are, even if it's just a lie Don't tell me when the morning comes You can keep the secret if you try, if you ever loved me baby, then keep it for the rest of your life, cause I don't want to know the truth

I take the stage but I don't want to be there when you pulling the strings make them dance, make them sing
So long with the show Yeah we know how the story ends
The curtain goes up oooh
I took the stage and I'll pretend That this ain't my life and this ain't by heart and you're not the one tearing it apart

Can we make a vow We'll never confess Could never get out
Be better if we let it rain
