

On A Saturday Night

Jordan McCoy

I made the unforgivable mistake
When I broke our love in two
I was a fool one night
And all we built on trust
I took away from us
I was a fool

Now I'm lying here lonely with the radio on
They play memories of us in every song

It's 11:27 on a Saturday night
And I'm staring at the ceiling with tears in my eyes
Wishing I could find a way to turn back time
'Cuz she's holding you the way I used to
And all the blame is mine

I'm alone at 11:27 on a Saturday night
And all the blame is mine

All I want and all that could have been
Was scattered just like flames
Blowing in the wind
So I turned off my phone and I told my friends
I can't go out and take the chance of seeing her happy with him

It's 11:27 on a Saturday night
And I'm staring at the ceiling with tears in my eyes
Wishing I could find a way to turn back time
'Cuz she's holding you the way I used to
And all the blame is mine

I'm alone at 11:27 on a Saturday
You should be right here next to me
But I'm just lying to myself to think that you will ever be

And I'm staring at the ceiling with tears in my eyes
'Cuz she's holding you the way I used to
And all the blame is mine
I'm alone at 11:27 on a Saturday night
