All You Deliver

José González

On the verge of ruin You'll see it all clear How steep the fall is How long the way back is On the verge of success It's all white and fluffy Horizons are blurred By the time you reach your goal Tongues will be twisted To the point where you'll lose track of your soul Distorted pictures is all you deliver