

Faith

Joseph Arthur

Faith
Comes in little waves
I don't need
To give myself away
I said faith
When it comes you have to pay
It's the pain
Which makes you believe

You could take everything away from me
You could take everything away from me

Here I stand
Naked and alone
Covered up
By only flesh and bone
I can feel
All your little stones
Beating me
Back into my hole

You could take everything away from me
You could take everything away from me
You could take everything away from me
{ first your love and your sympathy }
You could take everything away from me
{ then your pain and your company }

When I came
There was nothing I could lose
So why should I pretend
That there's something I could choose
When I go
It'll be like no one was here
Nothing to love
And nothing left to fear

You could take everything away from me
{ first your love and your sympathy }
You could take everything away from me
{ then your pain and your company }
You could take everything away from me
{ first your love and your sympathy }
You could take everything away from me
{ then your pain and your company }

You could take, you could take ...
Still won't have it, still won't have it all ...

Still won't have my soul
