

Morning Cup

Joseph Arthur

Because I love these people
I wanted you to stay
Can we now surrender
The games we used to play
Won't it all come back to
The will to love and treat you right
Ability to hold you
Anytime day and night

And I suppose it's up to you
Drinking a morning cup

Give up your soldiers
The battle has been won
You fell so far upwards
You fell into the sun
Yesterday's over
So different from today
When nothing is hidden
There's no reason not to stay

And I suppose it's up to you
Drinking a morning cup
And I suppose it's up to you
Drinking a morning cup

Taking the long way
To where you were before
Your shadow keeps turning
The knob of every door
But none of them open
You're disappearing now
You'll always be lost here
And finding yourself somehow

And I suppose it's up to you
Drinking a morning cup
And I suppose it's up to you
Drinking a morning cup

Because I love these people
I wanted you to stay
