

Hello Baby

Judge Dread

Last Friday night; you went with a friend,
Stood at the back until the end.
The music played, I lost my chance,
You didn't know I couldn't dance.

Hello, Baby, I think about you every day.
Hello, Baby, I dream about you every way.

On Monday next, I saw you again,
We shared a seat on the end of the train.
I couldn't talk; I hadn't the knack,
I found a card, and I wrote on the back:

Hello, Baby, I think about you every day.
Hello, Baby, I dream about you every way.

Hello, Baby, I think about you every day.
Hello, Baby, I dream about you every way.

I rang you up, holding my breath,
Spoke to your mum, I was frightened to death.
She said hello, and asked me to tea,
I nearly died when she whispered to me:

Hello, Baby, I think about you every day.
Hello, Baby, I dream about you every way.

Hello, Baby, I think about you every day.
Hello, Baby, I dream about you every way.

Hello, Baby, I think about you every day.
Hello, Baby, I dream about you every way.
