

Too Many Women

Julio Iglesias

Looking back to when I was young and free
And I owned my life, and no one owned me
Someone asked if I could give her a break
When I said "yes", I made my first mistake

Yes, she got her break, and so did I
Yes, she broke my heart for another guy
Yes, she broke my heart for another guy, for another guy
Don't know why, don't know why

Too many women too many women...
Too many women too many women...

I had dreams, you see and I had plans
But I traded them for some romance
Look what I'm facing just 'cause of chasing
Too many women too many women...
Too many women too many women...

When I see the mess that I'm drowning in
I know why I'm here, after where I've been
If the truth be told I would have to say
It was worth the price, that I had to pay

Though they break your heart, and make you cry
I can hardly wait 'till the next comes by
I can hardly wait (don't know why, don't know why)
For another try
Don't know why, don't know why

Too many women too many women...
Too many women too many women...
Too many women too many women...
