

Lights Go Out

Jupiter One

Last night was a sleepless one
And the rain had me thinking that the sun would never come
A white flash split the sky in two
And my heart beat louder than the thunder
When I would think of you
Of you and your new man
Now every time I see you two together I fall apart
And the lights go out
The phone's busy every time I call
And it looks like the sun is gonna rise after all
So I pull the blinds down
I know I set the alarm to ring
But with my eyes unfocused on the ceiling I can't hear anything
Except the voice in my head saying that "Everybody told you they all knew it right from the start"
Now every time I see you two together I fall apart
And the lights go out
I pull aside the curtain, see a snake on the floor
You say you don't know how it got inside the door
You lied about the things that everybody else knows Got me running in circles everywhere I go
And the lights go out
