

Still Cries

Justifide

She dreams and she cries
Never even got a goodbye
I love you and will stand by you
Until the end of time, he said

And now he has left and she cries

Now she is left by herself
With a child on her hands
And her tears, they stain her young face
Because of this mistake

And she says, I am alone
Me and my child
Where did he go
He said he loved me

And the years, they pass
And the time goes by
And she still cries
She hopes that her son will meet his father

Someday, someday, someday