End of Innocence

Tell me do you remember The games and the laughter? Far from the choices we'd have to make A kiss on the lips Turned the toad to a prince And the end was a lifetime away

I pour myself onto this page I am writing a swan song for ages I will leave it behind And just maybe you will Remember me...

It's the end of an innocent era The beauty we know will be lost We are building a bridge Between heaven and hell To return again And why must a hero die young Not to be gone and forgotten So I pray for the broken This is not the end of innocence

Now it's me and my knife And my will is my temple Numb from the choices I have to make Slowly we all took a bite of the apple And laughter's a lifetime away Remember me...

I pour myself onto this page I am writing a swan song for ages I will leave it behind And just maybe you will Remember me...

It's the end of an innocent era The beauty we know will be lost We are building a bridge Between heaven and hell To return again And why must a hero die young Not to be gone and forgotten So I pray for the broken This is not the end of innocence

Of innocence... Where do we go from here...?

It's the end of an innocent era The beauty we know will be lost We are building a bridge Between heaven and hell To return again And why must a hero die young Not to be gone and forgotten So I pray for the broken
