

Garden

Karen Elson

I went down to the garden saw the trees and the sky are grey you were there crying
for you knew that the seasons are changed

Once we danced to the moonlight shared a kiss to the rising sun everything was dying fleeting moments lost under the gun and you asked me: "why does love fade into darkness?"

I went down to the garden
you were there crying
understood that the seasons are changed screamed out to the thunder hailed our hands up towards the night what did we fall under? now the candles don't burn so bright

cause we cannot change
and you asked me: "why does love fade into darkness?"

you were the crying
for you knew that the seasons are changed
