More Than Ordinary

Kasey Chambers

I used to make the fire Now I'm running out of flame The closer I get, the more regrets

And I won't change everything To have you back again But I can't keep everything the same

They say it won't get harder And I'm gonna be okay But it's just like me going against the break

And while I'm tied to your shoestrings And I'm breakin' from the strain Those damn things hold on like chains Yeah, those damn things hold on like chains

Was I ever really more than ordinary? Did you ever see me like I saw you? Was I ever really more than ordinary? Did you ever need me like I need you now? I need you now

If I was a liar I had a few more friends The chances are my heart would never mend

And even know my conscience would go Runnin' back again Doesn't really hurt to pretend No, it doesn't really hurt to pretend

Was I ever really more than ordinary? Did you ever see me like I saw you? Was I ever really more than ordinary? Did you ever need me like I need you now? I need you now I need you now I need you now I need you now I need you now
